

A Battle Worth Fighting

A Sister in Arms Novel

Sahara Dawn married a man she didn't fully love, only to find, over a decade later, she can't breathe without him. The problem is, he seems to have given up on their marriage, having taken a job across the country, and is in no apparent hurry to return to his wife. Desperate to make things right and inspired by a distant relative who fought as a female soldier in the Civil War, Sahara leaves everything familiar behind, learns a new trade, and sets off to win back Jaxon's heart. But is she too late?

TROPES & TOPICS

- ✓ Secret Female Civil War Soldier
- ✓ Marriage Reconciliation
- ✓ Fish out of Water
- ✓ Construction worker
- ✓ Poet
- ✓ Finding Faith
- ✓ Georgetown, SC
- ✓ Utah

ISBN: 979-8985478938

286 PAGES

ASIN: B0BX2L186D

SONFLOWER BOOKS

AWARDS

- Bronze Winner 2024 Illumination Book Awards

AVAILABLE NOW

E-BOOK

- Amazon
- Free on KU
- Hoopla

PAPERBACK

- Amazon
- Barnes & Noble
- Walmart
- Books a Million

AUDIOBOOK

- Audible
- Chirp
- Hoopla
- Nook

Please feel free to reach out for any questions.

simplysarahhanks@gmail.com

READER REVIEWS

A wonderful split time novel that kept me engrossed from start to finish!

Christy

"I enjoyed this book very much. The writing style is nicely lyrical, and the two women's storylines were engaging and heartfelt."

Shaen Mehl

"I Hanks expertly pulls the reader from one time era to another as she captures the emotions and heart of her audience."

JJ

About Sarah

Sarah Hanks is a multi-award-winning author of split-time Christian fiction. She and her husband have ten children, a couple of whom seem to have inherited their mother's love for playing with words and crafting stories. Though Sarah dreams of a cabin by the beach, the family lives jammed together in beautiful chaos near St. Louis, Missouri. She buys earplugs in bulk.